BACKGROUND STORY

Afi Sulaiman is an artist, born and raised in Malaysia with a past art education heavily based on a decade of art classes, influenced by the Malaysian school system. She began exploring art by researching artists she admired and took them as influences alongside her own experimentation in collages, both paper and digital, as well as mixed media.

Her first stepping stone in the creative industry began when she was shortlisted to participate in the fourth cohort of the Young Art Entrepreneurs! programme held by the National Art Gallery of Malaysia in 2019.

She explores everything related to Malaysian food culture in the form of illustration and stories, including children's books, art prints and many more.

DRAFT

PLANNING

This artwork by Afi Sulaiman was inspired by childhood stories of innocence and self-acceptance. The Ugly Duckling and Mary Blair's The Little House (1952) as well as the metamorphosis of a caterpillar to a butterfly all showcase change, despite being inevitable, it is beautiful and scary too. Sometimes you try your best to fit within societal norms despite your differences but in the end, your effort to change goes unknown or not good enough. Well, it is good enough even if you don't end up to par as society's expectations. You come to realise you changed for the better as the ability to let yourself be fully you is just as good.

FREQUENTLY USED TECHNIQUES

MIXED MEDIA

Combining various materials such as paint, fabric, and found objects to create textured, multi-dimensional pieces.

COLLAGE

Using layered images and textures to convey complex narratives and emotions.

ABSTRACT EXPRESSIONISM

Utilizing bold, dynamic brushstrokes and vivid colors to express intense emotional experiences.

SYMBOLISM

Incorporating symbolic imagery to add depth and meaning to her works, often reflecting personal and cultural themes.

THE SUBJECT

AFI SULAIMAN

Afi Sulaiman's art frequently addresses themes related to mental health, identity, and cultural heritage. Her work "I Try My Best & It Is Good Enough" specifically focuses on the subject of mental health, promoting positive self-affirmation and mental wellness.

Through this piece, she aims to raise awareness about the importance of self-acceptance and the journey towards mental health, encouraging viewers to acknowledge their efforts and find comfort in their uniqueness.

PROMOTION OF POSITIVE AFFIRMATION

The artwork prominently features the phrase "I try my best & it is good enough," which serves as a powerful affirmation promoting self-acceptance and mental wellness.

This phrase encourages viewers to embrace their efforts and recognize their inherent value.

SYMBOLISM OF GROWTH AND RENEWAL

The vibrant flowers and butterflies symbolize growth, transformation, and renewal, which are integral to the mental health journey.

These elements reinforce the message of personal development and resilience.

CULTURAL AND ENVIRONMENTAL REFERENCES

The depiction of traditional buildings reflects Afi Sulaiman's connection to Malaysian culture and heritage.

The inclusion of natural elements like flowers and rivers emphasizes harmony with nature, which is often linked to mental well-being.

USE OF BRIGHT COLORS

The bright and contrasting colors evoke a sense of optimism and hope, counteracting the often dark and negative perceptions associated with mental health struggles.

This choice of color palette aims to create a positive and uplifting visual experience for the viewer.

ELEMENT AND PRINCIPLE

OF ART DESIGN APPLIED

ELEMENTS OF ART

Line: The image uses curved and straight lines, obvious in the buildings, flowers, and text.

Shape: Various shapes are present, including geometric shapes (buildings) and organic shapes (flowers, butterflies, and leaves).

Color: The artwork features a vibrant and diverse color palette, including greens, yellows, pinks, and blues, contributing to its lively and positive mood.

Texture: Visual texture is suggested through the detailed rendering of the flowers, leaves, and buildings, creating a sense of depth and richness.

Space: The composition utilizes both positive space (occupied by buildings, flowers, and other elements) and negative space (the background) effectively, creating a balanced layout.

Value: There is a range of light to dark colors, providing contrast and helping to define the forms and shapes within the image.

Form: The image appears two-dimensional, but the use of overlapping elements and shading gives an illusion of form and depth.

PRINCIPLES OF DESIGN

Balance: The artwork achieves a sense of balance through the symmetrical arrangement of elements, such as the butterflies on either side and the flowers framing the composition.

Contrast: Contrast is evident in the use of complementary colors and the juxtaposition of different textures and shapes.

Emphasis: The central banner with the text "I try my best & it is good enough" serves as the focal point, drawing the viewer's attention.

Pattern: Repetition of certain elements, like the flowers and architectural details, creates a pattern that adds to the visual interest.

Rhythm: Rhythm is created through the repetition of shapes and colors, creating a sense of visual flow.

Unity: All elements are cohesively integrated, creating a harmonious and unified composition that conveys the overall theme effectively.

Proportion: The proportion of elements varies, with some flowers and buildings being larger than others, adding to the dynamic and engaging nature of the artwork.

DIGITAL ARTWORK

BASED ON AFI SULAIMAN'S ARTWORK

Title : "Break the Silence: Your Mental Health Matters"

Software : Adobe Photoshop

Medium : Digital Art

Size : A4(2480*3508 Pixels)

Resolution : 180

SUBJECT AND THEME

Subject: The subject of the artwork is mental health awareness. It emphasizes the importance of speaking up about mental health issues and seeking support.

Theme: The overarching theme is breaking the silence around mental health. The artwork encourages individuals to share their stories, acknowledge that it's okay not to be okay, and reach out for help. It promotes self-care and mental well-being.

ELEMENTS AND PRINCIPLES IMPLEMENTED IN ARTWORK

ELEMENTS

Color: Vibrant Colors: The use of bright and vibrant colors in the flowers and butterflies creates an inviting and positive atmosphere.

Contrasting Colors: The text colors contrast well with the background, making the message stand out.

Line: Organic Lines: The natural shapes of the flowers, butterflies, and leaves give the design a soft, comforting feel.

Shape: Natural Shapes: The shapes of flowers and butterflies add a touch of nature and symbolize growth and transformation.

Texture: Implied Texture: The detailed illustration of flowers and butterflies gives a sense of texture, making the design more engaging.

Space: Positive and Negative Space: Effective use of space around the text and illustrations creates a balanced composition.

PRINCIPLES

Balance: Symmetrical Balance: The design is symmetrically balanced with flowers and butterflies on both sides, providing a harmonious look.

Contrast: Color Contrast: High contrast between the text and background ensures readability.

Element Contrast: The detailed illustrations contrast with the simpler background.

Emphasis: Text Emphasis: The main message is centrally placed and highlighted with contrasting colors to draw attention.

Title Emphasis: The title at the top stands out due to its size and color, grabbing immediate attention.

Unity: Harmonious Elements: The use of a consistent color palette and natural elements (flowers and butterflies) ties the design together.

Movement: Directional Lines: The arrangement of flowers and butterflies leads the viewer's eyes through the text, creating a natural flow.
